WATERCOLORS

November
Edition

The Line and the Light

This expressive piece combines the clarity of pen-and-ink sketching with the fluidity of watercolor to depict a prominent European cathedral. The structure is made with precise architectural details, highlighting the grand dome and Corinthian columns.

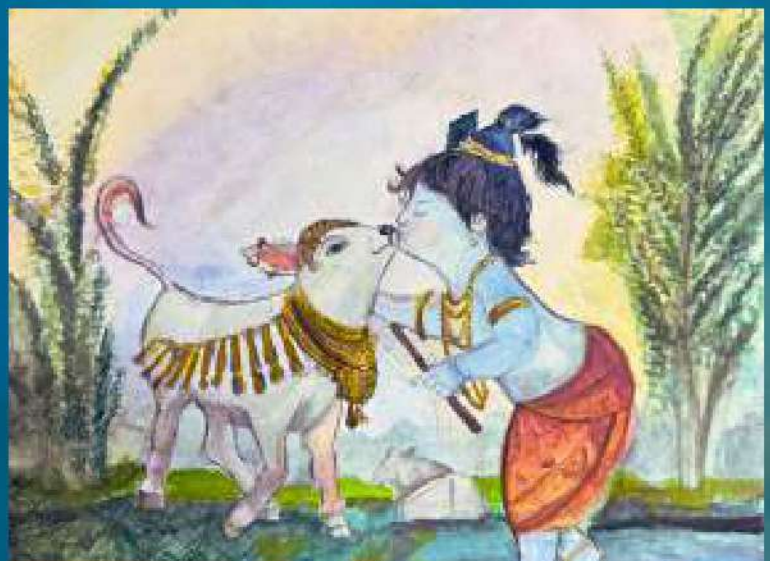

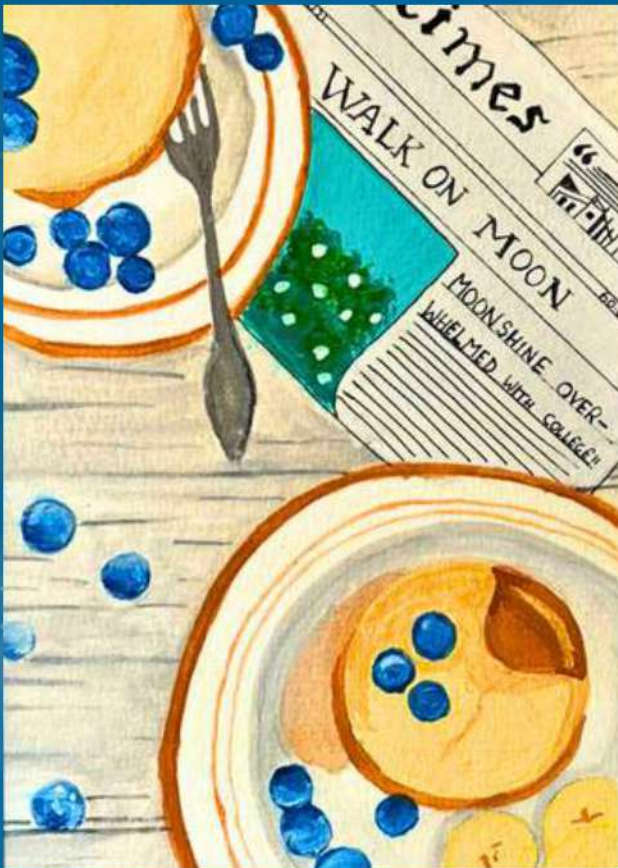

TANISHKA GUPTA

Art has always been my way of relaxing and expressing myself without pressure. I enjoy making things just for fun, letting the process itself guide me. Creating gives me a quiet space to slow down and reflect. Alongside this, I'm also pursuing my BBA and balancing both sides of my interests.

The Divine Embrace

A watercolor painting capturing a moment of pure, gentle connection. I wanted to portray the young boy Krishna simply giving a heartfelt kiss to his calf. The scene focuses on the innocent, everyday affection between a child and his animal companion, set against the stylized, vibrant greenery of the Indian countryside.

Blueberry Morning

A cozy breakfast moment captured with soft tones—pancakes topped with blueberries, scattered berries around the plate, and a newspaper on the side. It feels like a quiet, slow morning filled with warmth.

Koi Serenade

A calming scene of three vibrant koi swimming in gentle circular ripples, surrounded by bright lily pads. The contrast of deep water and lively oranges creates a peaceful, flowing composition.

Palak Agrawal

As an artist, I express myself through sketching, watercolors, and handcrafted work. I love exploring whether through detailed pencil lines, soft watercolor layers, or creative craft pieces. My style focuses on simplicity, balance, and capturing small moments of beauty in everyday life.

Hriday Thakur

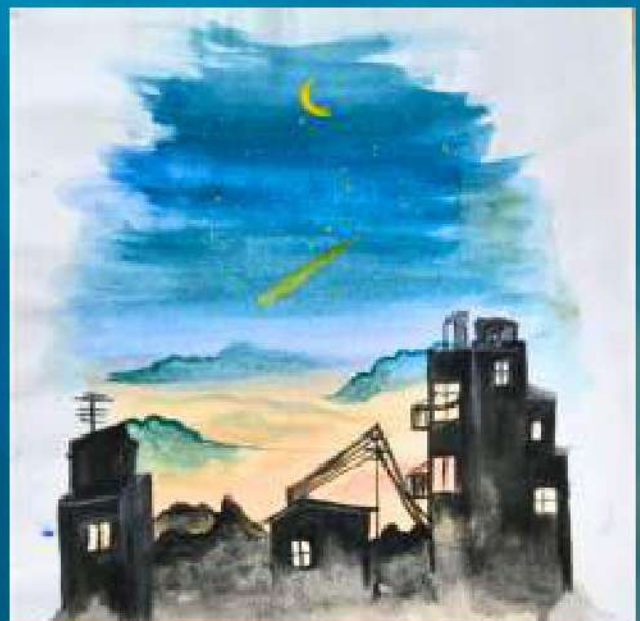

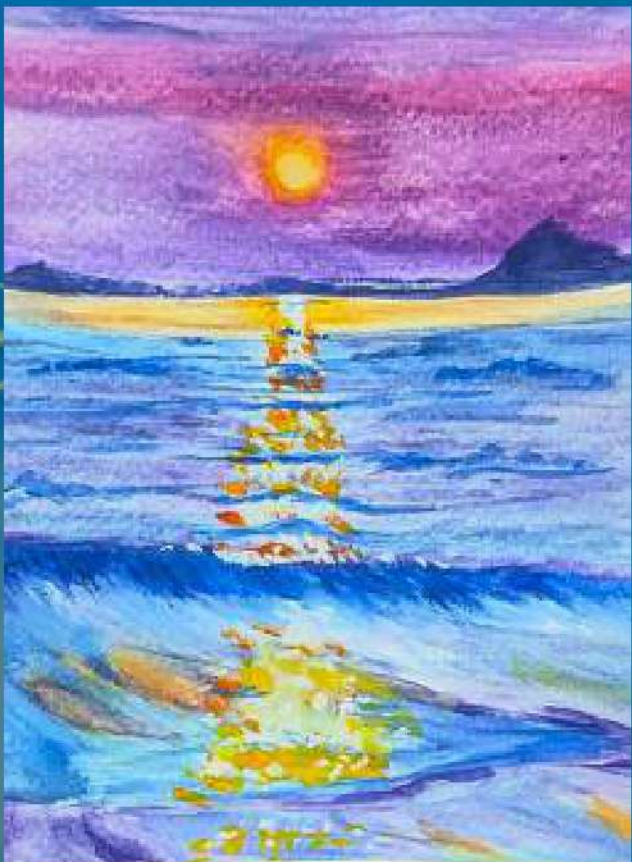

My watercolor and mixed-media works are defined by a deep exploration of duality, symbolic language, and the intersection of the earthly and the mythic. In short, I see myself as a figurative storyteller whose paintings offer an intimate, powerful look at human existence and the enduring resonance of ancient stories.

Aashi Gupta

These artworks beautifully blend emotion and transformation — the first capturing the raw intensity of a realistic human heart set against a deep black void, and the second expressing freedom through a serene blue butterfly against soft, dreamy colours. Together, they reflect the journey from inner depth to gentle growth, from feeling to becoming.

Drifting through lilies

A small boat gliding through scattered lily pads, created entirely through instinctive layering rather than a fixed plan. Each wash of color built the scene gradually, giving the water its depth and the composition its natural, unforced flow. It feels spontaneous yet serene, like the painting unfolded on its own. The final texture speaks to the delicate dance between water and pigment. This unplanned method allows the tranquil atmosphere to dictate the artwork's completion.

Kanishka

@kanishkathisside

As an artist, I explore almost every art form, and most of my work begins without any fixed plan. I create by following my mood and letting the piece unfold naturally. My style shifts and evolves with whatever I'm feeling in the moment, which makes it fluid, intuitive, and versatile.

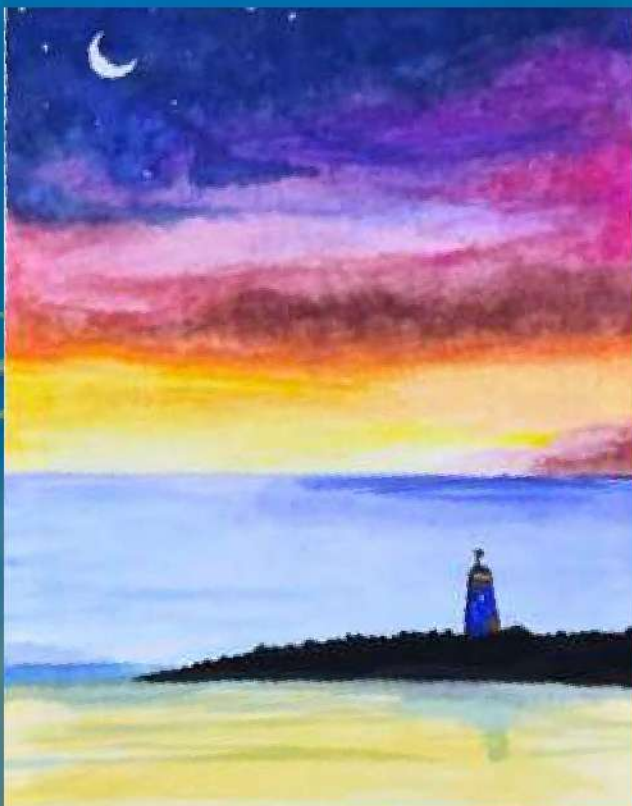

The Toucan

It's a portrayal of a the majestic Toucan done with watercolor, showing its beautiful colours of its feathers.

Bagisha Roy

Hi! I'm Bagisha Roy, A 22 year old Bengali artist currently persuing Tech but trying my best to manage time and pursue my love for art through my painting of animals, nature, food and sometimes emotions.

Serene twilight

Chahat Gautam

This painting captures a calm and peaceful twilight moment where day gently surrenders to night. A small, solitary lighthouse stands on a dark stretch of land, its blue structure subtly illuminated, creating a peaceful focal point against the expansive sky. The artwork blends soft gradients and dreamy colors to evoke a quiet, contemplative mood—like watching the last light drift away at the edge of the sea.

Illuminated Silence

Myra Sahni

"Illuminated Silence" draws inspiration from the timeless charm of vintage lanterns. With soft layers of colour and expressive, hand-drawn strokes, this artwork reflects my own search for moments of calm. It symbolises how even in silence, warmth and light can quietly find their way to us; reminding us to pause, breathe, and feel alive.

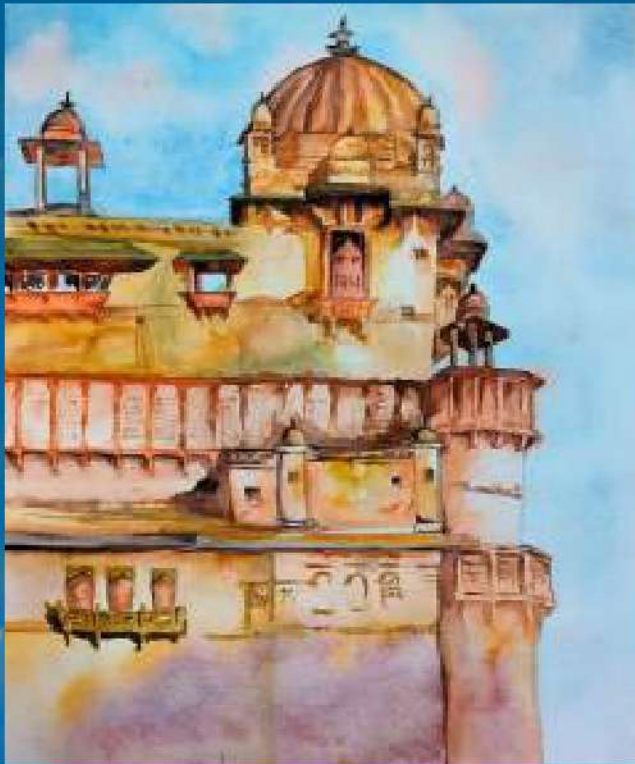

Suryanshi Sharma

@ofhueandheart

This painting captures the serene beauty of a winter night illuminated by the magical glow of the northern lights. The peaceful cabin nestled among tall, shadowy pines symbolizes warmth, solitude, and comfort in the midst of a snowy wilderness. Inspired by the quiet charm of winter landscapes, the artwork blends cool tones of the aurora sky with the soft glow of cabin lights, creating a dreamy and calming atmosphere.

Northern Lights

Quiet Majesty - Kanak Mehra

Here's an updated version with watercolor clearly mentioned: Description: This watercolor painting was created live on location in Orchha, capturing the warm sandstone tones and intricate Mughal-Rajput architecture of the fort complex. Through soft washes and detailed layering, the work reflects the monument's quiet grandeur and timeless charm.

Freedom in Lockdown - Anjika Kushwaha

This painting shows a bird flying across the open sky and carries a special meaning for me. When everything around suddenly became quiet and restricted, I remember feeling peaceful at first, but as the days went by, that calm slowly turned into a sense of being trapped and uncertain.

Peace in Devotion - Ashika gupta

A peaceful depiction of divine presence where love, nature, and spirituality blend into calm expressions and soft colors.

Lavanya Girdhar

A gentle watercolor showing a child and a cat sitting side by side, looking out at a blurry, colorful background. It captures a calm moment of friendship.

Cherry blossoms & snow-capped peaks

- Kartik Gupta

This artwork, created in Class X, is an original painting titled Cherry Blossoms & Snow-Capped Peaks. It captures a rugged, dramatic mountainscape—a visualized sanctuary and an aspiration for escape. The composition juxtaposes the timeless majesty of snow-capped peaks rendered in rich, textural earth tones, with the ephemeral beauty of cascading pink cherry blossoms.

Surekha Bansal

This painting is inspired by the magical moment when the sun meets the horizon and the world becomes silent for a few seconds. The glowing sky, soft reflection on the lake, and dark trees symbolize peace, hope, and the soothing comfort of nature. It represents a moment where the day slowly fades, but beauty continues to shine.

Kavisha Asrani

A radiant butterfly rises against a fiery sunrise, wings alive with color. It whispers hope, resilience, and quiet triumph—like a soul reborn, fragile yet fearless, blooming with light after the longest night. It feels playful, fresh and kind of dreamy - like a little escape on your wall.

SURYANSH BHARDWAJ

@they_callme_suri

This hand-drawn sketch captures the intense and charismatic presence of a man styled in the iconic look popularly associated with a brilliant, sharp-minded persona from the Marvel universe. The artist has paid attention to fine details—from the expressive eyes behind the signature glasses to the defined beard and confident expression—highlighting both strength and intelligence. The shading work brings depth to his features, while the suit and tie add a touch of sophistication. Overall, the artwork beautifully reflects the aura of a visionary hero known for his wit, brilliance, and unshakable confidence.
